Further Promotion and Optimization of Free Trade

Preface

On April 28, the Political Bureau of the CPC Central Committee held a conference on analyzing and studying the current economic situation and economic work. The conference stressed the need to comprehensively deepen reform and expand opening-up at a high level. We will earnestly implement the reform plan for Party and government institutions and modernize the country's governance system and capacity. We will attach greater importance to attracting foreign investment and maintain the basic quota of foreign investment in foreign trade.

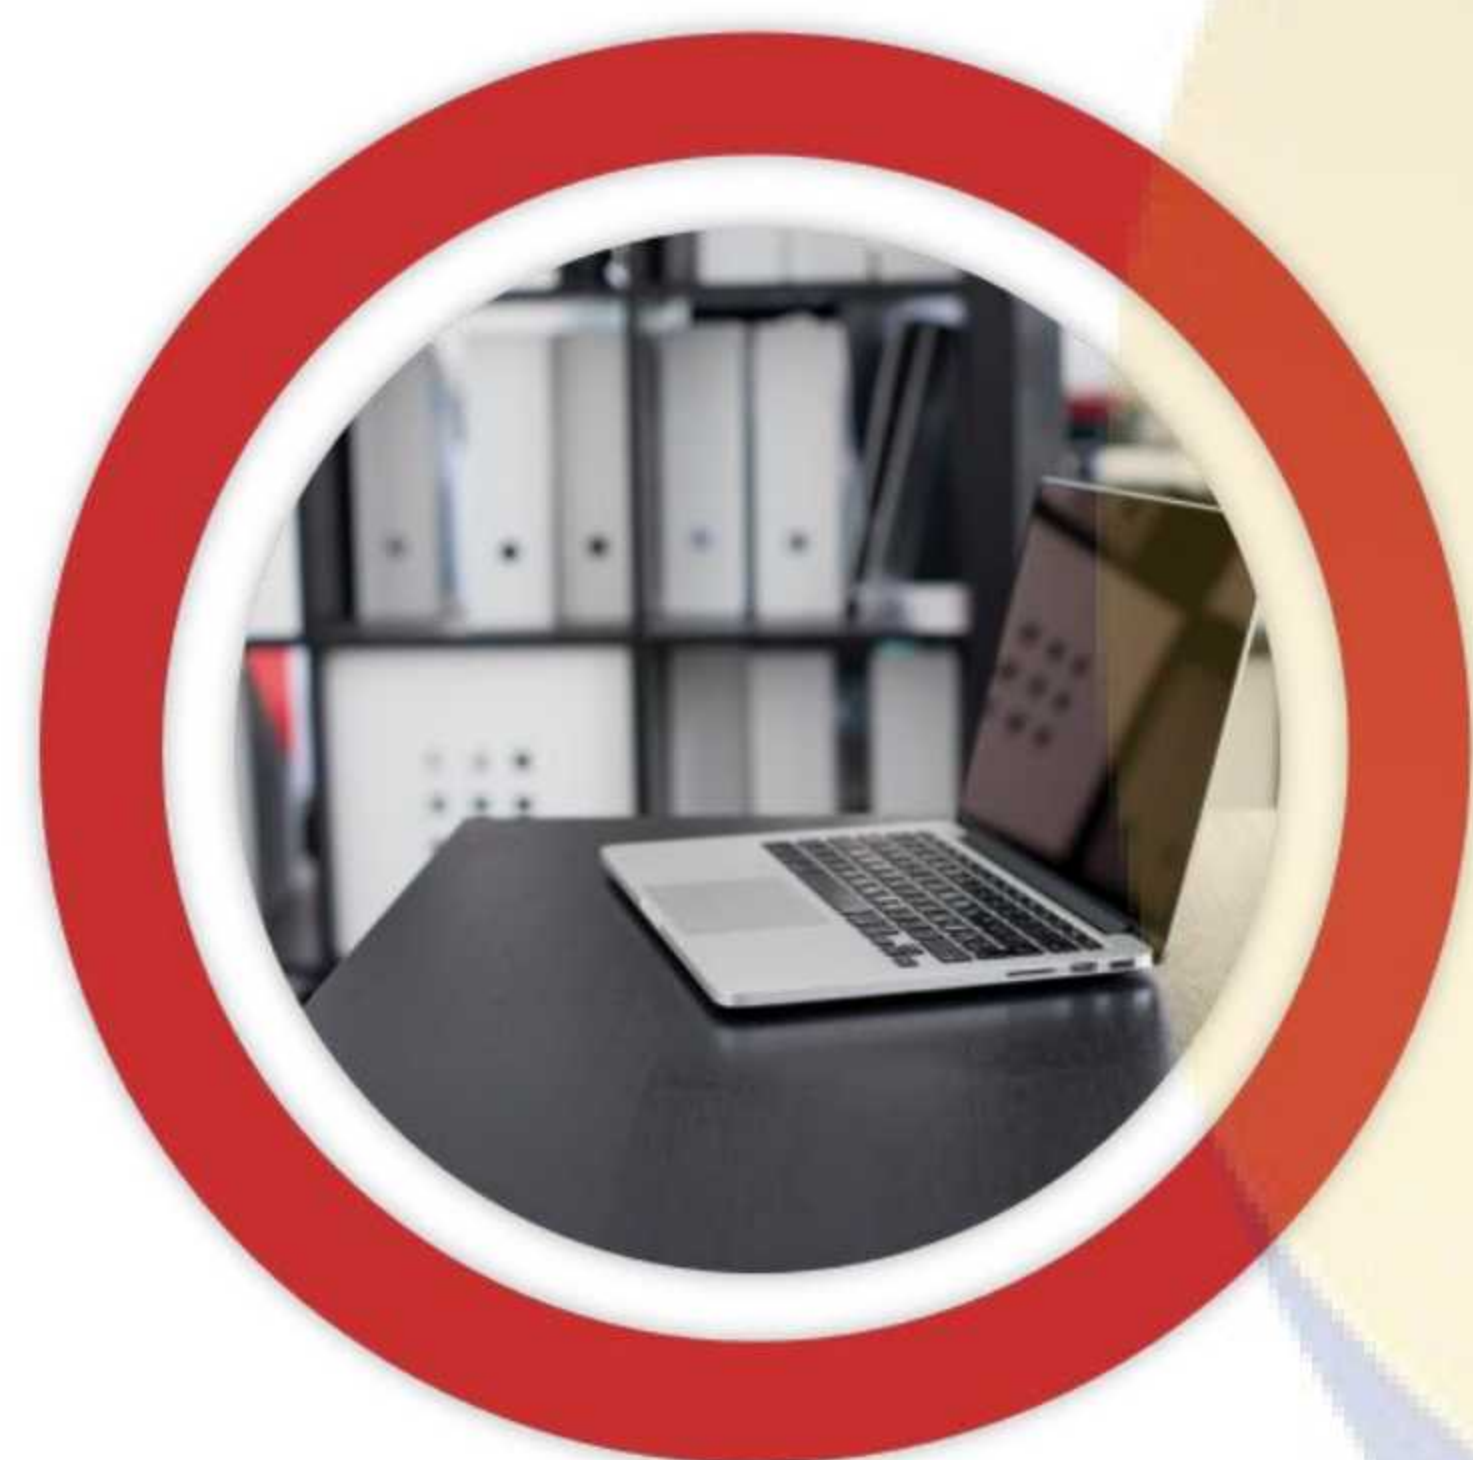

Further Promotion and Optimization of Free Trade

Notice of the Tariff Commission of The State Council Concerning the Application of the Tariff Rates of the Early Harvest Arrangement Agreement of the Free Trade Agreement on Certain Imports of Goods originating in Nicaragua

RCEP Will Take Effect for Philippines on June 2

This signifies that the RCEP will take full effect for all 15 member countries and the world's largest free trade area will enter a new stage of full implementation.

In services and investment

The Philippines has committed to opening its markets to more than 100 service sectors, significantly opening up maritime and air services, and giving foreign investors more definitive access commitments in the areas of commerce, telecommunications, distribution, finance, agriculture and manufacturing.

Trade in Goods

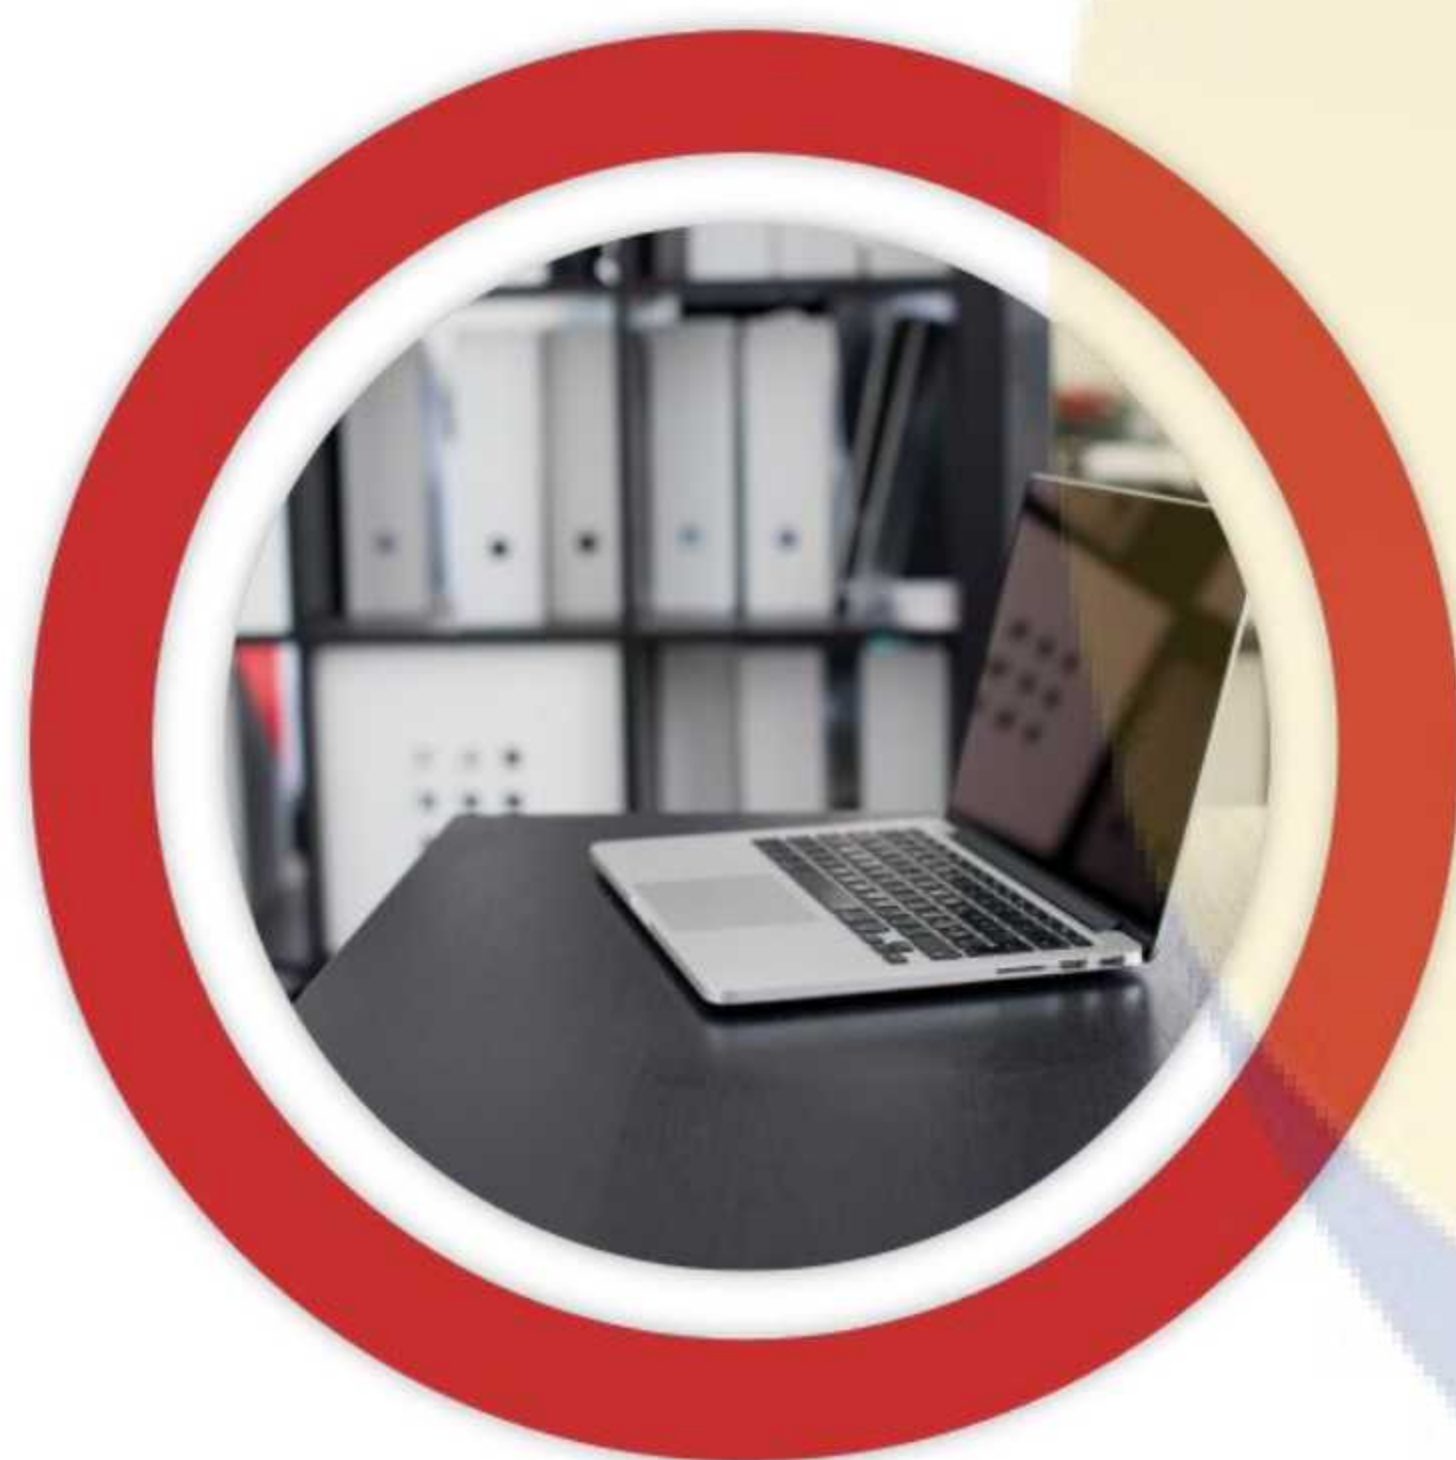

After the RCEP comes into effect for the Philippines, in the field of trade in goods, based on the China-Asean Free Trade area, the Philippines has added zero-tariff treatment for Chinese automobiles and parts, some plastic products, textiles and garments, air conditioners and washing machines, and other products. After a certain transition period, the tariffs on these products will be gradually reduced from 3%-30% to zero.

New Progress in Mutual Recognition of AEO

Mainland-Macao Customs

Notice No. 49, 2023 of the General Administration of Customs shall come into effect on June 1, 2023. The Mainland and Macao Customs have reached mutual recognition of "Certified Business Operators" (AEOs)

China-Uganda Customs

Notice No. 45, 2023 of the General Administration of Customs shall come into effect on June 1, 2023. China-Uganda Customs "Certified Operators" (AEOs) reached mutual recognition

China-Uzbekistan Customs

On May 18, at the China-Central Asia Summit, the "Arrangement for Mutual Recognition of the Certified Operators" System was signed.

New Progress in Mutual Recognition of AEO

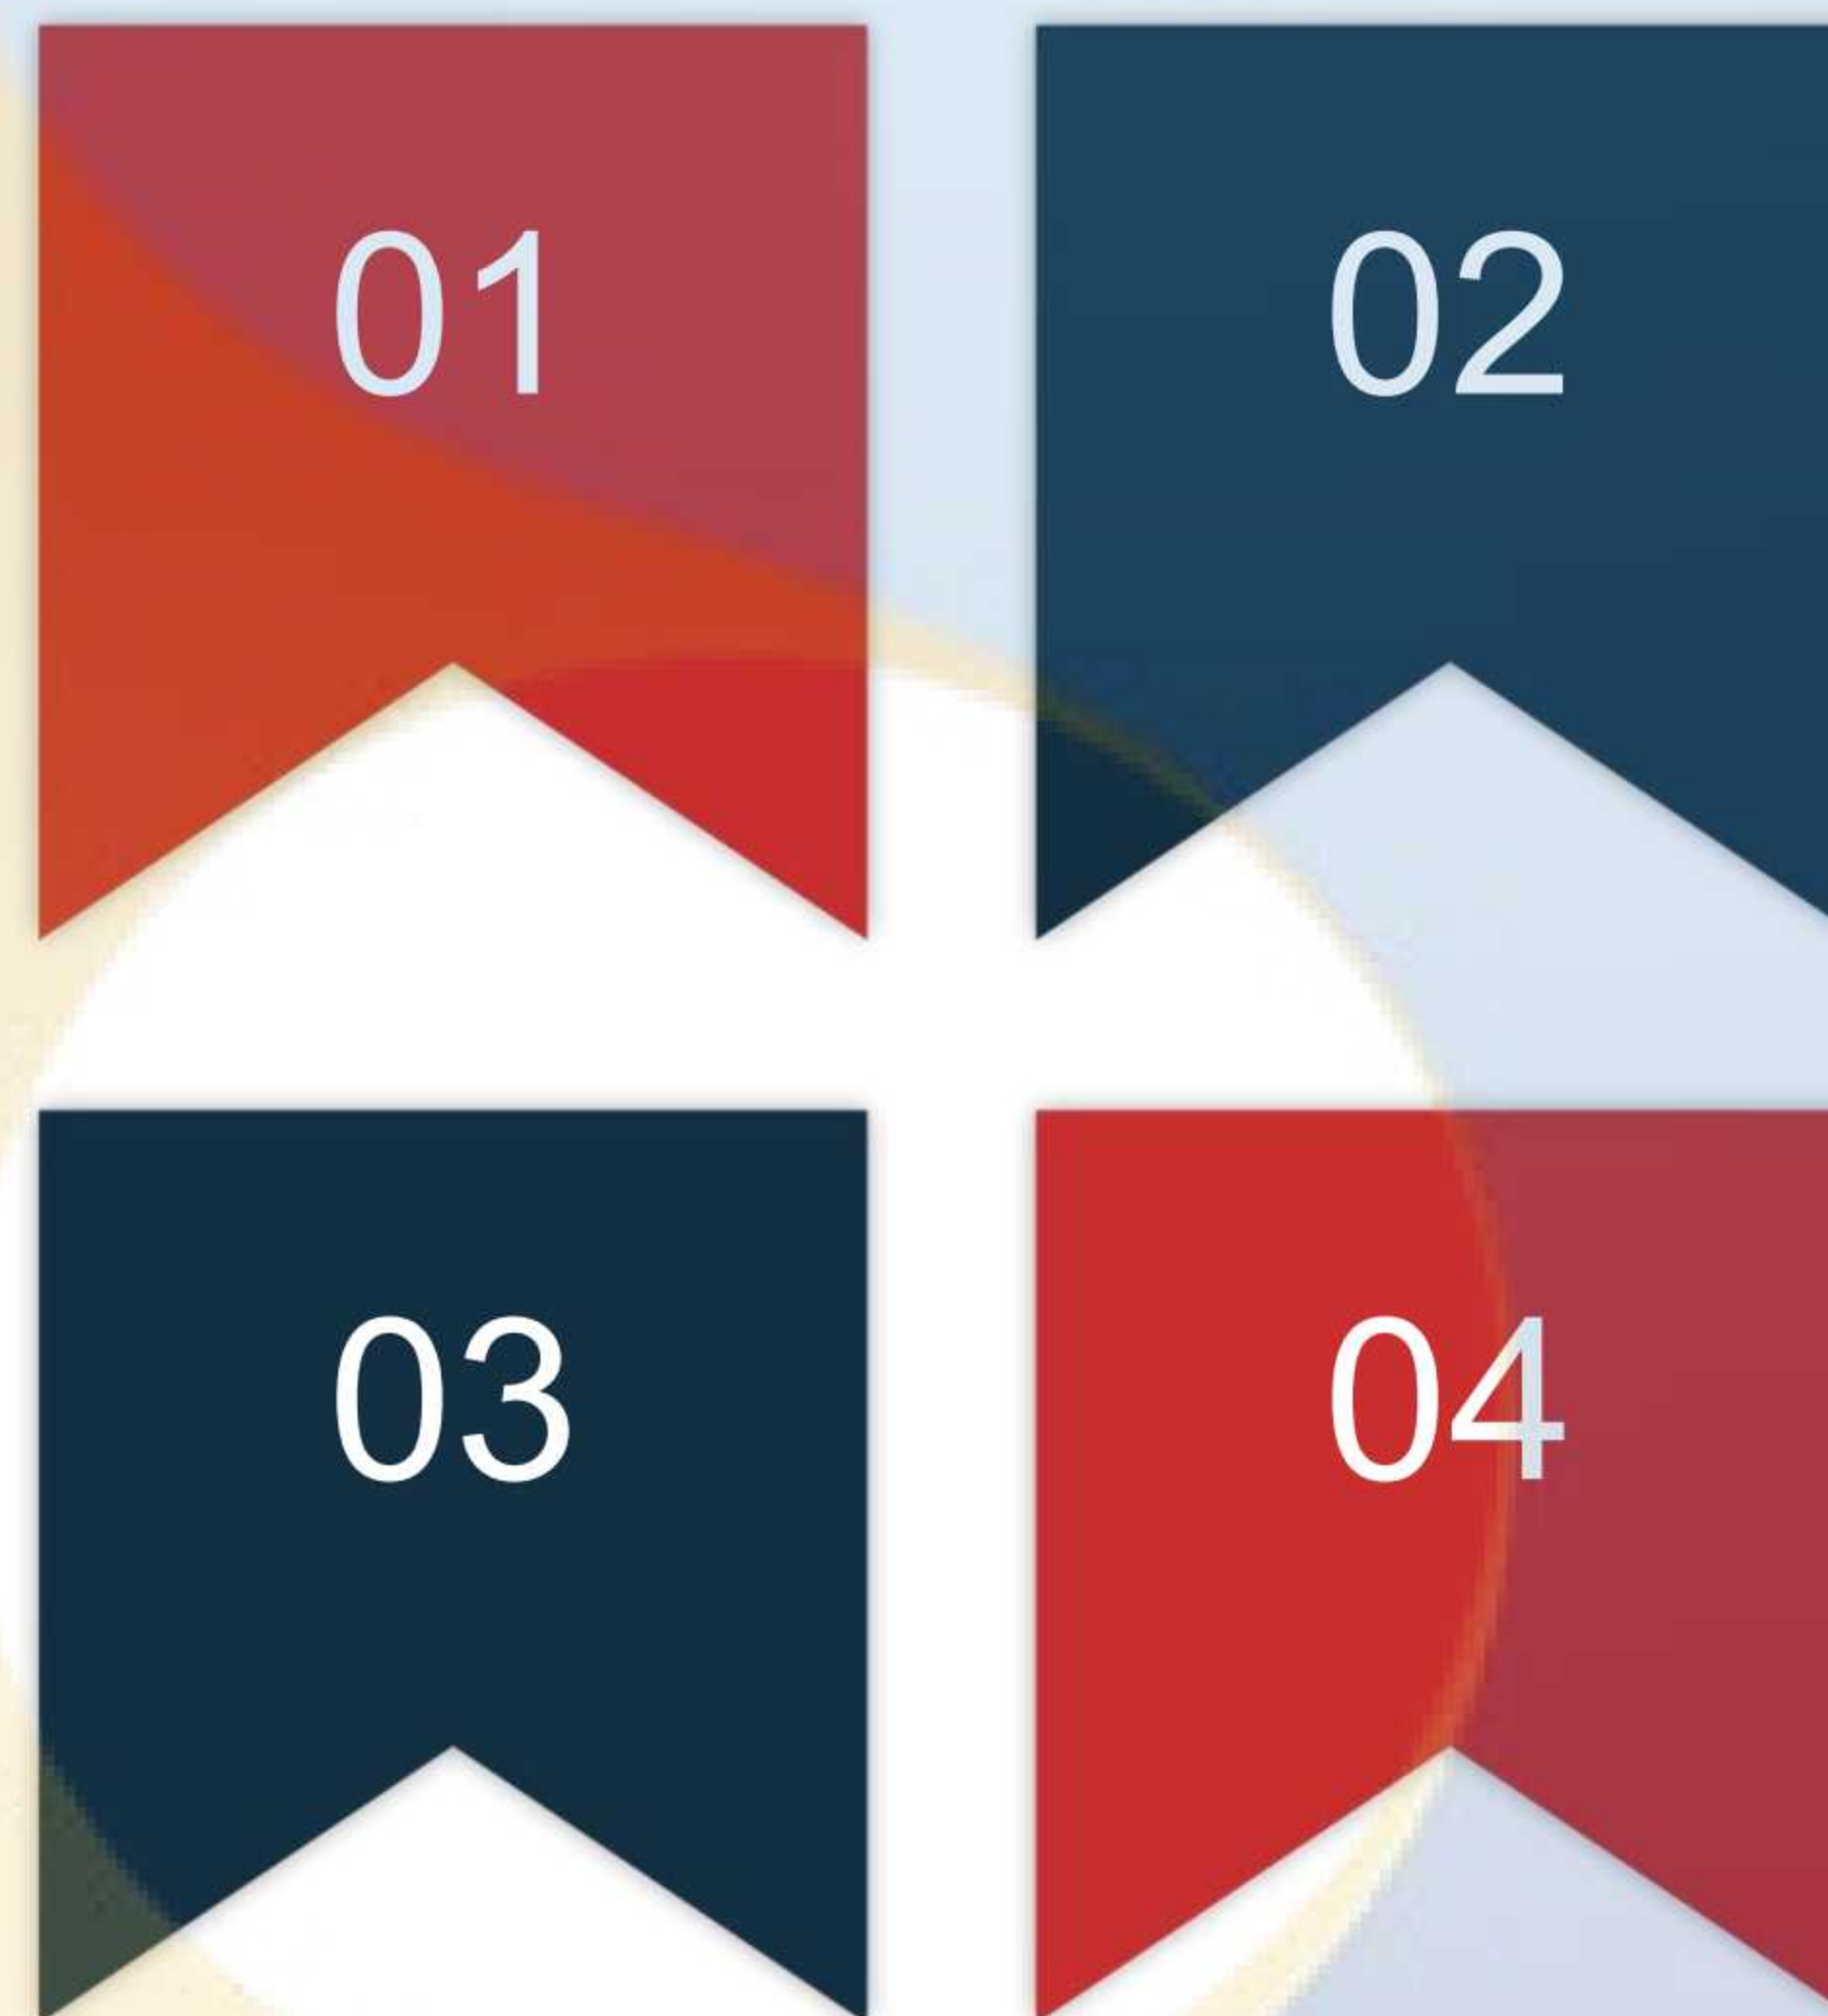

AEO--

“Authorized Economic Operator”

The AEO system, initiated by the World Customs Organization, aims to facilitate customs clearance by certifying enterprises with high law-abiding degree, credit status and safety level.

Specific facilitation measures for customs clearance

- ü Low documentation review rate is applicable ;
- ü Low inspection rate is applicable ;
- ü Give priority to goods requiring physical inspection ;
- ü Designated customs liaison officer, responsible for communicating and dealing with problems encountered by AEO enterprises in customs clearance ;
- ü Priority should be given to customs clearance after international trade is interrupted and resumed 。

Advantages of AEO certification in international trade

- ü Efficient and uniform supply chain standards and procedures
- ü Reduce inspection rate
- ü Reduce document review and other requirements
- ü Provide valuable information to AEO participants
- ü Special measures during periods of trade disruption or enhanced trade security

National Layout of AEO Mutual Recognition

They include 35 countries along the Belt and Road, 5 RCEP members and 13 Central and Eastern European countries. The import and export volume of Chinese AEO enterprises to AEO mutual recognition countries or regions accounts for 60% of their total import and export volume.
